

```

/*
 *      A program which displays all permutations of a word
 *      (entered in the command line).
 *
 *      Example :
 *          (word = "ABC")
 *              ABC
 *              ACB
 *              BAC
 *              BCA
 *              CAB
 *              CBA
 */

class Permutations {
    public static void main (String[] args) {
        String word = (args.length == 0)? "DEFAULT" : args[0].toUpperCase();
        permute("", word);
    }
    public static void permute (String prefix, String str) {
        if (str.length() == 0)
            System.out.println(prefix);
        for (int i = 0; i < str.length(); i++) permute(prefix + str.charAt(i), str.substring(0, i) + str.substring(i + 1));
    }
}

/*
 *      Variable Description :
 *      -----
 *      Serial no. | Variable name | Data type | Purpose
 *      ~~~~~
 *      1          | word         | String   | Stores the word
 *              |              |          | entered
 *      -----+-----+-----+-----
 *      2          | prefix      | String   | Stores the partially
 *              |              |          | created permutation
 *      -----+-----+-----+-----
 *      3          | str         | String   | Stores the remaining
 *              |              |          | word, after letters
 *              |              |          | are pulled into the
 *              |              |          | (prefix)
 *      ~~~~~
 */

```